

Watch sea turtles on new webcam

February 18, 2010

Take a peek at sea turtles in their tanks with Loggerhead Marinelife Center's new TurtleCam.

Threatened and endangered sea turtles, such as Leatherback, loggerhead and green turtles, are nursed back to health at the nonprofit Juno Beach center and can be seen on marinelife.org and fpl.com.

The Florida Power & Light Group Foundation sponsored the webcam, which was launched Wednesday.

Viewers watch the center's newly rehabilitated patient, "Ladybug," which will be released back into the ocean.

Other sea turtle patients at the center currently include those being treated for swallowing fishhooks and monofilament and turtles that have been injured by boat propellers.